The Ottumwa division of the Wabash Western was never in such fine condition as now. While the company has been very liberal in furnishing material, the excellent condition of this part of the road is due to the watchful eye of the Division road master, Mr. A. S. The Hannibal Post tells of another swindle upon unsuspecting farmers. A stranger call to sell a fanning mill. Such receipt turns up later in the bank as a note against the farmer.

$10,000 REWARD.

Lost strayed or stolen from home somewhere about the middle of the month, a short common looking old, tall and very beautiful

YOUNG GIRL

About 4 feet and 5 inches old and 17 years high. She was dressed in a new flour sack dress with a big Indian chiefs' head on it, trimmed with bologna sausage and vegetable mouvoir. Her bonnet was made of cabbage leaves trimmed with oysters and decorated with rhinoceros ears, the strings tied around her wrists and festooned with oyster teeth and mosquito feathers. She has a pair of cast iron corsets, a present from her grand children. She also wore a waist belt very broad of belief. The last time she was seen was at the Chariton bridge about the middle of next week in a single two horse open lumber four in hand buggy cutter accompanied by President Cleveland with the national debt strapped on his back and a dynamite gun under his arm and Fisk as coachman. She was known to be on her way to Halladay Bros. immense Grocery Store. She was heard to remark that it was the only grocery store in North Missouri where she could get good pure groceries at a reasonable price.
